Whether it's sequels to successful franchises (e.g. Despicable Me 3, Cars 3, Incredibles 2) or the expected adaptation of beloved stories (e.g. Ryan Pilkey's popular children's book series has finally been adapted for the big screen. Hangover star Ed Helms will be the main character in the best-selling series adaptation. The film follows George (voiced by Kevin Hart) and Harold (voiced by Thomas Middleditch), two pranksters who hypnotize their principal into believing he's a superhero named Captain Underpants. The film stars A-list actors such as Nick Kroll, Jordan Peele and Kristen Schaal. After his two rounds, Lightning McQueen (Owen Wilson) races again to the big screen with Cars 3. Chapter three has been put at the centre of McQueen as he struggles to preserve his competitive heritage. Surrounded by a new generation of young racers, McQueen aims to become the top driver he was once known to be. Enlisting help from a new technician, McQueen decided to prove himself and compete in honor of the Hudson Hornet. Wilson, Larry the Cable Guy, Bonnie Hunt and Cheech Marin reprimand their roles. Popular minions are ready to take on a new enemy in the upcoming third round (except for the presea part, which is simply titled Minions). Emmy, Tony and Grammy Award winner Trey Parker joins the returning cast of Balthazar Bratt, Gru (Steve Carell) with a new eccentric and fashionable enemy. As Bratt plots about world domination, Gru — who also meets Dru, the brother he never knew he had received (including Carell's voice) - and fun-loving mints must work to overthrow a new enemy. Kristin Wiig and Miranda Cosgrove are also reprimanding their roles in the new animated film. You've used them to text and social media, and now Sony is bringing everyone's favorite creeps to the big screen #TheEmojiMovie. Setting up characters in real emojis such as a cookie, ice cream cone, meh face and poop emojis, the comedy explores a secret world where emojis live inside everyone's smartphone. In the city of Textopolis, Gene (voiced by T.J. Miller) is the only emoji without a single look. Dreaming of being normal among her emoji peers, she seeks help from her best friend Hi-5 (voiced by James Corden) and a codebreaker emoji called Jailbreak (voiced by Anna Faris). Together, they start an application project to find a code that finds a solution to Gene's problem. Will Arnett's Surly Squirrel return to the big screen after Open Road released the original film in 2014. Going forward, Surly and his friends will fight to save their home from a bad mayor who threatens to bulldozer his once peaceful surroundings and turn it into an amusement park. Maya Rudolph, Katherine Heigl, Jackie Chan, Gabriel Iglesias, Bobby Moynihan, Bobby Cannavale and Jeff Dunham also appear in the film. Childhood snack staples will bring their magic to the screen later this year. In the film, the family uses magical animal biscuits to prevent the famous circus from taking over their evil uncle Horatio P. Huntington. Sylvester Stallone, John Krasinski, Emily Blunt and Ian McKellen voice the characters in the film. Lego movie creators become the new spinnoff of popular building blocks. Based on the Lego Ninjago series, the film follows six young ninjas fighting to defend their Ninjago home. Although they are warriors at night, during the day young ninjas are ordinary teenagers. The film stars Olivia Munn, Justin Theroux, Dave Franco, Jackie Chan, Abbi Jacobson, Michael Peña, Fred Armisen and Kumail Nanjiani. The famous children's toy heads to the big screen in its first film adaptation. When Ponyville is threatened by dangerous force, colourful ponies embark on a journey to Horse Racing to fight the danger that threatens their home. Along the way, ponies meet new friends and face challenges. Movie Voices of Zoe Saldana, Emily Blunt, Live Schreiber, Kristin Chenoweth, Taye Diggs, Uzo Aduba and Michael Peña. Oprah Winfrey, Kristin Chenoweth, Zachary Levi, Christopher Plummer and Gina Rodriguez will record an animated Christian birth story and hit theaters in November. The holiday movie is directed by Tim Reckart. Pixar is ready to introduce her next animated creation Coco. Directed by Lee Unkrich, the film (Toy Story 3) is inspired by the Mexican holiday Día de Muertos. The story follows 12-year-old Miguel (voice of newcomer Anthony Gonzalez), who aspires to become a musician like his idol Ernesto de la Cruz (voice of Benjamin Bratt). Miguel is determined to prove himself and launch a chain of events that will take him to a colorful land of the dead. In that world, he finds out about his family's history. Gael García Bernal and Renee Victor also star in the animated film. Based on a popular picture book, Blue Sky Studios (Ice Age) brings to theaters the story of a beloved bull named Ferdinand (John Cena). Although bulls are known for being fierce and scary, Ferdinand maintains a calm degradation that separates himself from other bulls. One day, when men start picking bulls to fight in Madrid, Ferdinand is elected and must immediately try to be the bull he is expected to be, without compromising who he really is in the process. Gina Rodriguez, Kate McKinnon and David Tennant also cast their voices for the animated film. After the success of the 2014 film, the marmalade-loving bear returns to the big screen in a live-action/CGI animated sequel. Now that Paddington has settled with the Brown family home in London, he is looking for the perfect gift for his Aunt Lucy's 100th birthday. When he finds a pop-up book in an antique shop, Paddington has to work on a wide range of jobs to make money to buy a special gift. When the book is unexpectedly stolen, Paddington and his family have decided to track down the book thief. Sally Hawkins, Ben Whishaw and Hugh Bonneville reprise their roles, with Brendan Gleeson and Hugh Grant also appearing in the sequel. Seven years after the first film, Gnomeo and Juliet return with a new adventure. James McAvoy and Emily Blunt reprimand their lead roles as Johnny Depp joins the cast to play Sherlock Gnomes, a detective who helps Gnomeo and Juliet track down the vanishing dome of the dope. Fantastic Beasts and Where to Find Them star Eddie Redmayne joins the animation world as Caveman Dug. In prehistoric times, the animated comedy follows Dug and his best friend Hognob, who works to defeat his enemies. Lord Noth (voiced by Tom Hiddleston), who plans to hijack his home with his Bronze Age town. Maisie Williams also has a role to play. Sony adapts Beatrix Potter's beloved classic story into a movie. The film follows Peter (voiced by James Corden), a rebellious rabbit trying to sneak into a farmer's Garden. Directed by Will Gluck (Easy A), the film also features the voices of Margot Robbie, Daisy Ridley, Rose Byrne, Elisabeth Debick and Domhnall Gleeson. John C. Reilly returns as a video game character from Disney's sequel, exploring Ralph's life six years after the first film ended. The story follows Ralph's fun adventures on the Internet after the wi-fi router is connected to the arcade. Phil Johnston and Rich Moore are scheduled to direct the film, which is expected next year. Jane Lynch, Jack McBrayer and Sarah Silverman also reprise their roles alongside Reilly. The sequel to the original film, which debuted 14 years ago, will hit the big screen in mid-2018. In keeping with the original premise, the second installment will once again follow the adventures of the superhero family. Brad Bird returns to write and direct with Michael Giacchino, the film's composer. Craig T. Nelson, Samuel L. Jackson and Holly Hunter are expected to reprise their roles. A tribute to Me! Brooks' 1974 film Blazing Saddles, Open Road Films stars all animals, samuel L. Jackson, Michael Cera, Ricky Gervais, Michelle Yeoh, George Takei and Brooks himself. The film follows Hank, a young dog trying to save the city of Kakakucho from the intrusion of a cat warlord. In his pursuit, Hank aims to fall against his city's enemies. Although the trailer hasn't been released yet, the first poster for the animated film is centered behind Hank, wearing a samurai belt with Hello Kitty. Sergeant Stubby is historically known as the most distinguished dog in the American Army. Directed by Richard Mann, the film tells the touching story of a brave dog sharing contact with soldiers during World War I. Logan Lerman, Helena Bonham Carter and Gérard Depardieu give their voices to the animated film. Movie.
